Miranda's message in a bottle

Dear whom finds this letter,

I am writing to tell you about me, and what has happened to me and my father. How dreadful it has been learning about my past, but also what my future might be. This is my story:

I am Miranda, daughter of the Duke of Milan. Or should I say ex-duke. My father is a magician, he can cast spells. When he was Duke he would spend hours and hours in his library, reading about all sorts of spells. He has a brother, my uncle, named Antonio. Antonio was jealous of my father, so he set a trap. When I was just two years old, Ten years ago now, Antonaio set us out to sea in a mouldy old boat. I cried and cried, wondering where we were. But one of my father's faithful servants, Gonzalo, had found out about the evil plan and prepared the boat with food and water, along with some of my father's magic books. We sailed for days and days, not knowing where to go... Then one day we came to this island.

When I first found out that my father was the Duke of Milan I couldn't believe it! I mean my father!? A Duke?! And how could his own brother, the person he grew up with, betray us like that! He left us to die! Everytime I think about him I shudder. What an awful man! I will never forgive this man. NEVER!

Today, my father used his magical powers to create a massive storm, truly horrendous to sink a ship of people. I suffered watching them suffer. It was a nightmare! Only when my father told me they were all safe and washed up on the island did I begin to calm down. But why did he do it? Then he told me our story, I finally learned about my past!

"But what does that have to do with those poor innocent people who you almost killed father?" I asked him desperately.

"Those people on the boat....They were....King Alonso, my evil brother Antonio and all their servants" My father said

"Why were they on a boat?"

"Some wedding I think, That's what Ariel heard them talking about"

"Oh"

"I wanted to get revenge on them" Replied my father, who I thought, could never hurt a fly.

My father put me to sleep with one of his spells and when I woke up I saw a man standing in front of me. I have never seen a man that handsome! Ferdinand. Such a nice name. When I am older I want to marry him. He is the most handsome,humble,kindest man I have ever seen!
